Partnerships are essential.

During her first three months on the job, Towson University President Kim Schatzel has met with educators, business owners, government leaders, and community members to discuss how TU is working with partners, to what end, and where we need to do more.

At the TU Showcase, you will hear President Schatzel's vision for TU's role as a partner and resource for the Greater Baltimore region.

Be part of the conversation and register today.

TU Showcase is free of charge and lunch and parking are provided. However, because this event is well-attended, we suggest you pre-register.
