Requirements

Once accepted into a Departmental Honors Program, students must complete the requirements as listed in the catalog for their major. Most departments require that students complete 9 units in advanced content courses, directed readings and/or independent investigations, and an Honors Thesis, but some departments may offer other options, such as an extensive design project. The thesis/project culminates in a final presentation before a committee and the thesis advisor and is open to the public. A completed, signed copy of the thesis/project approval form must be submitted to the Honors College no later than two weeks before graduation. Two UNBOUND, signed copies of the thesis and an electronic copy of the thesis (preferably emailed to honors@towson.edu) must be delivered to the Honors College Office by the last day of the final exam period. When the Honors College receives the thesis/project, the appropriate designation appears on your diploma and final transcript.

DEPARTMENTAL HONORS POLICIES & PROCEDURES

Choosing a Topic and a Faculty Thesis Advisor

Students should consider decisions regarding the selection of their faculty thesis advisor and a thesis topic carefully. Because of the preparation required to register for the thesis project, it is important to come to the process with a working idea of the topic. Previous academic course work, co-curricular and extra-curricular experiences will help to select a focused topic area, which can be studied in greater depth. Past academic activities, such as short papers and readings from a variety of courses, may help to determine a starting point. Building on previous work by using both the knowledge and interest already developed is recommended and encouraged. Begin with several possible topics in mind or with several possible approaches to one large topic area.

After topic ideas have been developed, students should meet with the Departmental Honors Coordinator to discuss an appropriate faculty thesis advisor. A faculty thesis advisor might be an instructor in a previous course or someone who has supervised an internship. The faculty thesis advisor must be qualified in the topic area and should have a significant interest in the field. The faculty thesis advisor must also be willing to work closely with you.

Applying for Departmental Honors

An Honors Thesis Committee and Proposal Approval Form as well as an attached Honors Thesis/Project Proposal must be delivered to the Honors College Office when beginning your departmental honors program. An approval form is attached to the end of this handbook and available on the Honors College web site. A proposal for the Honors Thesis/Project should be attached to the form.

Most Honors Thesis Proposals are three to five pages, plus a bibliography. The proposal represents the product of a semester of carefully supervised analysis, reading, and research in either the Departmental Honors courses or the Directed Reading and Independent Investigation Courses. The faculty thesis advisor should be certain that the proposal is feasible in scope and appropriate to both ability and time constraints.

Honors Thesis Guidelines

The Honors Thesis should follow the standard format including a title page, approval sheet, and consecutively numbered pages through the notes and bibliography. The thesis should follow the stylistic conventions of your discipline. This handbook provides samples of a title page and an approval sheet as well as the Honors Thesis format.

Helping with Research

- Library Resources: Please visit Cook Library and the Cook Library web site for access to numerous scholarly resources. The library staff can help to familiarize students with the available resources to undertake their research.
- Undergraduate Research Services: The Office of University Research Services offers competitive grants to fund undergraduate research in all fields and to send students to professional meetings to report the outcomes of their scholarly activities. There is one deadline for Research Grants each semester and two deadlines for Travel Grants.

Thesis Committee

The thesis committee is composed of the faculty thesis advisor and at least one additional faculty representative. Honors College students are required to have a representative from the Honors College on their committee. The members should be chosen in consultation with the faculty thesis advisor. Members of the committee are responsible for reading and responding to the thesis, evaluating the work, and attending the public presentation. At the end of the colloquium, the members must sign the two required copies of the thesis, which will be kept in the Special Collections and Archives of Cook Library.

Honors Colloquium

The Honors Colloquium is a public presentation of the thesis project. The audience is composed of interested students, invited guests, the faculty thesis advisor and the thesis committee members. The advisor will introduce the student to the audience who will then give a brief (approximately 10-20 minute) synopsis of the work, followed by a discussion of the work by the audience.

Projects emphasizing the creative or performing arts, rather than traditional academic endeavors, must also include a public presentation. The nature of the project will dictate the type of presentation. This event should, however, build in time for the audience to ask questions or make comments.

Finalizing your Thesis

Two UNBOUND, signed copies of the thesis and one electronic copy of the thesis (preferably by email to honors@towson.edu) must be delivered to the Honors College Office by the last day of the final exam period. If the student can not meet this deadline, the student should withdraw from the thesis course before the official date to withdraw from classes. If the student does not withdraw and does not complete the requirements, they will receive an incomplete (I), and they will be given an opportunity to complete the project during the following semester.

HONORS ELECTIVES

REQUIRED FOR HONORS COLLEGE STUDENTS ONLY

All Honors College students must complete 6 units of Honors Electives. The Honors Electives are designed to allow students maximum flexibility in designing a project or course of study most suitable to their academic needs and goals. All Honors Electives include a significant piece of writing (to be submitted to the Honors College upon completion) and a public presentation. Questions about the Honors Electives should be directed to the Honors College. Students may fulfill their Honors Electives requirement by completing 6 units from the following course options:

Departmental Honors Program

Honors Independent Study/ Directed Readings/ Independent Investigations/ Internship

Students who are interested in receiving Honors credit for a Departmental Independent Study, Directed Readings, Independent Investigations or Internship must also submit a proposal syllabus for the course to the Honors College no later than the last day of the Change of Schedule period. Students may use the Honors syllabus templates as a guide, and they should clearly state how the Honors course differs from a traditional Departmental Independent Study, Directed Reading, Independent Investigations or Internship. In order to obtain Honors College credit for any of these courses, students must work directly with a faculty member, submit a formal written component for the course to the Honors College, and complete a public presentation before their peers. Syllabus templates for the Honors Independent Study/ Directed Readings/ Independent Investigations/ Internship are available in the Honors College Student Handbook and on the Honors College Community Blackboard site.

Honors Credit for Study Abroad

Students participating in short term study abroad courses may receive 3 units toward their Honors Electives if they complete an approved study abroad project. Honors students participating in a full semester (term) study abroad may receive 6 units toward their Honors Electives if they complete an approved study abroad project. Students participating in Honors College sponsored study abroad programs do not have to complete a separate project to receive Honors units. Questions about honors credit for study abroad should be directed to the Honors College.

Upper-Level Honors Seminars

Honors students may complete an additional 6 units of upper-level Honors College seminars toward their honors course requirements. These courses have original topics that are based on the instructor's area of interest and incorporate independent writing projects and a public presentation as part of the course's culminating activities. These seminars may satisfy a General Education as well as major department requirement.

Honors Thesis / Creative Project

Honors students may complete an honors thesis or creative project of their own design under the mentoring of a faculty member in their discipline and/or an Honors College faculty member. The Honors Thesis or Creative Project provides students with flexibility in designing a final honors experience that relates to their interests and career goals. Honors theses and creative projects result in a significant piece of writing submitted to the Honors College and a public presentation of the work. Questions about the Honors Thesis or Creative Project should be directed to the Honors College.
