Welcome to Towson University

On-Campus Resources

Albert S. Cook Library

The Albert S. Cook Library has thousands of resources to help graduate students be successful in their courses. From books, journals, and online databases this space provides graduate students with copious amounts of literature to tackle your assignments! As a graduate student, you can gain access to the graduate student reading room located on the 2nd floor of this library. This space is exclusive to graduate students and serves as a space to study, do homework, or just take a break between classes. This library has a Starbucks on the 3rd floor (where you walk in) along with various study rooms, and print stations. If you are having trouble finding a source or need help citing an article, the librarians at Towson are experienced and readily available. We even have a chat a librarian service, for those late-night projects.

University Union

The University Union houses many important offices and programs for campus. Some of the services offered here are, the University Store where you can rent new or used textbooks or purchase Towson apparel. Another important office here is the Auxiliary Services business office, this is where you can get your Towson OneCard which will be utilized to enter the Graduate student reading room in the library, print on campus, or take the campus shuttle. The union also has various dining options as well as a PNC and SECU Bank ATM's and a post office. At this time, the union is undergoing a state of the art renovation and will be ready for full operations by the spring semester of 2022.

Burdick Hall

Built in 2018, this recreation center is state-of-the-art! Burdick Hall has two multipurpose activity courts, studios for group fitness classes, a ninja warrior course, 33-foot climbing wall, swimming pool and numerous cardio machines and free weights for students to utilize. Burdick hall is accessible to students with their OneCard and included in tuition and fees. Bonus: there is a smoothie and acai window to fuel up after a hard workout!

The Writing Center

Students can go here during any stage of the writing process. Whether you need help brainstorming an idea or editing for a final time, experts at the Writing Center can assist you! You can make an appointment online with a writing assistant who is also a graduate student.

The Career Center

Staff at the Career Center can help you identify your interests and passions and turn it into meaningful work. Through self-assessments and one-on-one career counseling, this center can help you jumpstart the career you always wanted. With resume revisal, mock interviews, and LinkedIn assistance, the career center can assist with all your job-related questions or concerns.

The Counseling Center

Usually at no fee, the counseling center offers a myriad of services to students encompassing the importance of mental health. Some of these services are, individual and group counseling, substance treatment services, meditation and mindfulness rooms, referral services, emergency services, and various mental health related workshops and events.

Accessibility & Disability Services-

The ADS office serves students with various disabilities to find reasonable accommodations. Some populations the ADS office serves are students who may have a learning disability, physical or mobility disability, vision/hearing impairment, students with chronic health conditions, and those with mental health concerns. This office works with both temporary and long-term accommodations. If you believe you need reasonable accommodations, students are encouraged to make an appointment with the ADS office soon after enrolling to ensure measures can be met in a timely manner!

Child Care

Emphasizing the Montessori method of teaching, the Towson University Child Care Center is conveniently located on campus and staffed with lead teachers and caring student aides. This nature-based environment allows children to grow and learn with their peers with ample outdoor time. They offer part-time and full-time attendance and offer various student employment opportunities.

Center for Student Diversity

This office fosters inclusion, collaboration, and relationship building across campus. By providing social and transitional support to underserved or marginalized students, this office upholds Towson University's mission of a welcoming environmental for all.

Student Health Center

Located in the heart of campus, this student health center offers a wide range of services to students. Some services this health center offers are contraceptive/STD services and testing, physical exams, immunizations and tuberculosis testing, lab services, common illnesses, minor injuries, and referral services. This center encourages appointments however, walk-ins are available as well.

Information about the Graduate Student Association

What we do

The Graduate Student Association (GSA) is here to help and serve you...graduate students! We represent graduate students at Towson University. Each college has a specific representative that you will hear from during various times of the semester, regarding upcoming events and University happenings. We are a voice for you! We address the needs and concerns that arise for graduate students. We offer workshops, research and professional development funds, and resources to help support your success.

In addition to these services, the Graduate Student Association also hosts graduate student orientation at the start of each semester. This orientation provides new graduate students with information regarding Towson's campus, resources, and allows you to meet your GSA officers and various program directors.

GSA Funding

The GSA provides financial support for graduate students who are conducting scholarly research, engaging in professional development opportunities, traveling to professional conferences, or presenting at academic conferences. Graduate students who are currently enrolled in a degree program, taking courses, and are in good academic standing may apply and be eligible for funding. Per fiscal year, students can apply for funding for one travel award and one research project. For more details please go to our website, GSA funding or email us at gsa@towson.edu.

Workshops

At various times throughout the semester, the Graduate Student Association will host professional workshops that are free and open to all graduate students. Some topics in the past included: Managing Stress for Graduate Students, Professional Branding, Working with Individuals With Disabilities, LinkedIn, and Office 365. The GSA will send out emails to notify graduate students about these workshops during the semester.

TOWSON UNIVERSITY™

Open Meetings

Did you know you are part of the graduate student association too? Each semester the executive members of the GSA hold weekly meetings with the Dean of Graduate Studies to discuss various topics and concerns. Reach out to the GSA at gsa@towson.edu to find out the weekly meeting time for the semester. Please feel free to come to a meeting to discuss a topic, meet us, or ask a question!

This group was created to provide graduate students with a sense of community.

Graduate Assistantships

About Assistantships

There are various types of assistantships, students are encouraged to contact their program director to discuss the opportunities that may be relevant or available in their field of study. More information about assistantships can be found here. The various types of assistantships are listed below.

- Graduate assistantships
- Teaching assistantships
- Research assistantships
- Full time (20 hours per week)
- Half time (10 hours per week)

Students may be eligible for an assistantship if they are:

- Admitted to a graduate degree seeking program at Towson University
- Minimum GPA of 3.0 or higher in each term and in good academic standing
- Registered for course units each term of assistantship

Benefits of an Assistantship

While assistantships offer great financial benefits, there are other reasons to pursue an assistantship. Graduate students who work an assistantship may benefit professionally and personally. With this position, students may gain familiarity in their field, communication skills, leadership opportunities, administrative experience, and more.

Along with the professional experiences, students who are hired for an assistantship position will be provided with a tuition waiver and bi-weekly stipend based on the assistantship position, full time or part time. This information can be found here.

How to Find Assistantships

Most assistantship are posted on Towson University's Handshake page. While the majority are posted here, program directors are not required to post openings, therefore, we encourage students to contact their program director upon acceptance into their program. You can access Handshake by clicking here and will be prompted to sign in with your Towson University student information.
