Field Studies in Human-Environment Geography

GEOG 473/673 with Dr. Sya Buryn Kedzior

Fridays 11am-1:40pm

Learn new research and data collection skills while exploring local society-environment relationships!

This is a social-science, fieldwork-based class, ideal for undergraduates developing research skills, graduate students developing thesis topics, and anyone interested in performing hands-on research in local communities.

Field Methods include:
• Cultural Landscape Analysis
• Interviewing
• Opinion Surveys
• Participant Observation
