DESCRIPTION OF EVENT
The Covid-19 pandemic has had a devastating impact on individuals, families, and communities that has been well-documented in the media with countless stories of people’s narratives of loss and resiliency. However, far less attention has been given to the impact of the pandemic on incarcerated individuals and their loved ones. This event sheds light on Covid-19 in carceral spaces and its impact on the health, relationships, and lives of members of our society whose stories are shared far less often. The panel will feature individuals who can share insights on the perspective and experiences of those who endured the pandemic while incarcerated. There will be opportunities for audience members to ask the panelists their own questions and contribute to the discussion.
