

Internships in Communication Studies

Community Law in Action

Community Law In Action (CLIA) cultivates the leadership skills of Baltimore City's youth to elevate the unique voice of young people to advocate for positive community change. We are seeking a creative, self-starter interested in gaining communications experience while working in the nonprofit sector. The intern will: Assist in planning, writing and managing CLIA's biweekly e-newsletters that highlight youth accomplishments; Interview and photograph CLIA youth during programming and events; Assist in maintaining CLIA's social media presence, including daily monitoring, posting and scheduling Facebook and Twitter updates; Assist in designing flyers, graphics, event invitations and other marketing materials; Collaborate with staff on new ideas, directions, and tools for marketing and communications.

Candidates with at least half of their Bachelor's degree completed and/or with previous communications experience will be given preference in hiring. The ideal candidate will have excellent written and oral communication and interpersonal skills, the ability to work independently and with a team, experience using a DSLR camera, experience using social media for marketing, and a commitment to working with high school aged youth.

This internship is a semester commitment and will require approximately 10-15 hours per week. The internship is unpaid but we would be happy to help you arrange for college credit. A resume and cover letter should be sent to shannon@cliayouth.org. For more information about CLIA please visit our website www.cliayouth.org or check us out on Facebook (/cliayouth) or Twitter (/cliayouth).

Equality Maryland Political Action Committee

Equality Maryland is now accepting internship applications from people interested in our development, organizing, communications, and political programs. We are seeking applicants from throughout the state. As an EQMD intern, you'll be part of the inner workings of politics and elections and make a difference for the LGBT community in your day-to-day work. Plus, get hands-on experience working on exciting organizing and outreach initiatives to achieve true and lasting equality in the Free State! To download complete details and an application (MS Word file) please click here: <http://bit.ly/EQMDInternF14> or write to info@equalitymaryland.org

Baltimore County 4-H Program

The UME-Baltimore County 4-H Intern will be responsible for planning, developing, implementing and evaluating 4-H educational programs. This position will focus on increasing and enhancing partnerships in School and Afterschool programs. The 4-H intern will possess knowledge of 4-H youth development and will work independently and as a part of a team with county and area educators to develop and conduct programs. Major responsibilities include implementing and evaluating educational programs, promoting UME, and developing outreach programs. College students with an interest in youth development, education, community development and related fields. The intern should have general knowledge of the 4-H program and demonstrate youth development, organizational, leadership, communication, creative thinking skills. 4-H afterschool interns will serve a minimum of 4 hours per week and a maximum of 20 hours per week. Most 4-H afterschool programs will run between the hours of 3:00 p.m. and 6:00 p.m. For more information or to apply, please contact Nia Imani Fields, Extension Educator, 4-H Youth Development, Baltimore County, at 410.771.1761 or Nfields@umd.edu.

Center for the Study of Conflict

Established in 1982, the Center for the Study of Conflict works to understand how conflicts can be resolved through nonviolent methods. The group studies inter-individual, inter-group and international conflict. Examples include domestic issues (like Baltimore's ongoing criminal activity) and international unrest (like Swiss social policies and its political structure). The center is currently researching nonmilitary solutions to nuclear threats and attacks. Interns get a variety of hands-on experience while working for the center. Responsibilities may include administrative tasks, researching history and social science, and writing and editing reports and publications. Interns also help in the center's fundraising events. Send a resume, cover letter and names and phone numbers of at least two references (one work and one academic) to: Center for the Study of Conflict; Dr. Richard Wendell Fogg, Director; 5846 Bellona Avenue; Baltimore, MD 21212; Phone: (410) 323-7656

Human Rights Campaign

The Human Rights Campaign offers fall, spring, and summer internships in communications and marketing for their office in Washington, D.C. The HRC has been advocating for LGBT rights since 1980 and is very active in the fight for equality. You can apply for their internship program by visiting <http://www.hrc.org/the-hrc-story/internships> and completing an application, which includes writing a cover letter that answers specific questions.

National Aquarium

Internships at the National Aquarium provide hands-on and minds-on experiences that add value to any college education. Applying classroom knowledge, interns obtain valuable job experience and establish professional contacts. College internship positions are available year-round in many departments throughout the Aquarium. The Aquarium makes every effort to match interns to work that complements their studies, interests, and skills. Students must: Be registered at a two- or four-year accredited college or university; Be able to work a minimum of 120 hours within the chosen semester; Receive college credit for their work at the Aquarium. Applications for winter or spring terms are due November 1, applications for the summer term is due March 1, and applications for the fall term are due May 1. To apply, visit <http://www.aqua.org/jobs/internships-baltimore> to complete an application.

Himmelrich PR

Himmelrich PR is currently accepting resumes from college students pursuing an internship for their Fall Semester. We welcome interest from communications, public relations, marketing, English or business majors who want to build their portfolios and their knowledge of PR. Interns at Himmelrich PR work as part of our client teams and produce real work for a variety of local and national clients, including events and shows, nonprofits, attractions and large corporations. Duties can include: writing press materials, newsletters and other publications; creating content for social media; researching media and promotional opportunities; developing media lists and tracking media. Internships are unpaid and can be used for academic credit. Students with course work or prior experience in public relations, marketing or communications are preferred. All resumes and cover letters should be sent to Tony Fazio at internships@himmelrich.com.

Wolf Trap Foundation

Wolf Trap Foundation's Internship Program provides project-based training and experience to approximately 40 interns annually. As a Wolf Trap intern, you become an integral member of our team, working with staff and other interns on meaningful projects. You'll interact with Wolf Trap board members, patrons, and business leaders who can add to your experiences. Spring internships are paid, part-time positions (20-24 hours per week). Housing is the responsibility of the student, although guidance in this matter is available. Interns are required to have a car, as Wolf Trap Foundation is not accessible by public transit. Wolf Trap Spring Internships are offered in the following areas: Production and Sound, Marketing/Social Media, Advertising Sales/Group Sales, Graphic Design, Web Communications, Creative Copywriting, Public Relations, Donor Relations, Special Events, Planning and Initiatives. Application deadline for Spring 2015 Internships is November 1. For more information, email internships@wolftrap.org or call 703.937.6304.

IRTS Summer Fellowship

The IRTS Summer Fellowship Program teaches up-and-coming communicators the realities of the media industry and business world through a nine-week, expense-paid fellowship, which includes practical experience and career-planning advice. Students selected for this highly competitive program learn about opportunities throughout the industry, in addition to interning at a specific company in NYC where skills are matched to a corresponding area of our business. The Fellowship also provides the opportunity to network with industry professionals, take related field trips and attend panels, lectures and group discussions. Accomplished students from all majors (including math, computer science, liberal arts, business, marketing, communications, etc.) are encouraged to apply. The Summer Fellowship Program is competitive. Students must be college juniors, seniors or graduate students at the time of application. Applicants must be full-time students who will not graduate prior to April 2015. Fellowship takes place from May 31 - August 1, 2015, in New York City. Travel, housing, internship and living allowance included. Applications are due Sunday November 2, midnight EST. For detailed eligibility information and to download an application: <http://irtsfoundation.org/summerfellowshipprogram.html>. All applications and one-page resume should be sent to submit@irts.org.

Jesuit Volunteer Corps

The Jesuit Volunteer Corps is seeking an undergraduate, graduate student or recent college graduate to intern throughout the summer and/or fall semesters. As an essential part of a one-person department, the communications intern gains hands-on experience in nonprofit communications, which provides more context to academic lessons and professional skills for a career in public relations. The intern is asked to dedicate 15–20 hours per week during the regular semester, or 20–40 hours during the summer, for a minimum of eight weeks. Hours are organized around class or work schedules, but should fit between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. on weekdays. No evening or weekend work required. Tasks are assigned based on personal interests, talents, and strengths. Standard duties include creating coverage reports, strengthening media lists, organizing online photo storage, moderate design projects, and creating or posting content for online outlets (Facebook, blog, YouTube). A successful intern has a solid writing portfolio, strong web research skills, is able to stick to a deadline, has an interest in graphic and/or web design, experience with social networking sites like YouTube and Facebook, and an interest in JVC's work for peace and justice. Experience with Associated Press or Chicago Manual of Style, photography, and/or videography a plus. This position is unpaid, but can be tailored to meet course credit requirements. JVC offers women and men an opportunity to work full-time for justice and peace in 39 U.S. cities and six foreign countries. Our Baltimore headquarters in the Mount Vernon Cultural District has 13 full-time employees to support more than 340 Jesuit Volunteers and 12,000 friends and supporters. If interested, please send a resume and cover letter to aross@jesuitvolunteers.org. Include information about your available dates.

Weinberg Harris & Associates

Weinberg Harris & Associates, a public relations and marketing agency located in historic Hampden, is currently accepting applications for a spring intern. The ideal candidate will be a “go-getter” and willing to pitch in wherever needed. Strong writing skills, a willingness to learn and a positive attitude are essential. The right candidate will have flexibility to drive his or her own project development. This candidate will also be relied upon to collaborate and contribute to an ongoing creative process, provide feedback, and contribute to the development of new strategies and materials. Proficiency and familiarity with social media, Internet research and website management are a must. Responsibilities: Support WHA team with all public relations and marketing efforts, draft press releases, media alerts and marketing collateral, research and craft media lists, assist in pitching and fulfilling press requests. The internship is unpaid with a flexible, weekly part-time schedule. Internship Details: preferably Junior or Senior status, 15-20 hours a week. Interested and qualified candidates should submit their resume, cover letter and one AP Style writing sample via email to Kate Bowers at kbowers@weinbergharris.com.

Renegade Communications

Unlike conventional ad agencies, Renegade Communications handles the entire production process from ideation through to delivery in house. Renegade works with such brands as Comcast, Under Armour, Black & Decker and TimeWarner Cable, across print, video, digital and social media. We are currently looking for hardworking, enthusiastic candidates for three unique opportunities in accounts management, new business and incentive marketing. Qualified candidates would come in 2-3 times a week for 4-6 hours. The team is supportive of intern goals and works to help interns build their resume and support their business objectives. Interested candidates should email Jaimie Yates at interns@renegadecommunications.com.

WTMD

WTMD is looking for highly qualified junior or senior students who are motivated independent workers, but can also be team players. These students should also be very organized, efficient and excellent communicators. Will be working directly with WTMD's administration, Underwriting, Traffic and Membership Department, hands on experience with fundraising, information management, non profit and music business. Must have a love of music and knowledge of WTMD. This unpaid position has flexible hours a minimum of 10 hours a week and a on-campus location. Tasks include database management, fundraising, marketing, and working with membership managers.

CASA de Maryland

Assist in providing core services to local Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) programs, assist in the development/acquisition of training materials and the coordination of training events, assist in the development of new CASA programs in un-served areas of the State, assist in promoting communication, networking and sharing of information among local programs, assist in tracking of legislation, gathering information about policy changes and court decisions and disseminating information to local programs, assist in planning of annual legislative reception and "CASA Day in Annapolis," assist in promoting public awareness of CASA and recruiting volunteers to serve as Court Appointed Special Advocates and other volunteer roles, assist in researching potential funding opportunities for CASA, organizing fundraising events and activities, and providing assistance to local CASA programs in securing funding. Please send resume to Farajii Muhammad, Public Awareness Coordinator, at farajii@marylandcasa.org. Hire@TU Job ID 24103 | www.towson.edu/careercenter

Stevenson Group

Interns at Stevenson Group will have the opportunity to learn about the trade show exhibits, events & displays industries with side-by-side, hands-on apprenticeship that will arm them with the knowledge & experience needed to advance into an event and/or exhibit marketing career, or another related field of business. It is in the best interest of Stevenson Group to groom our interns to one day fulfill an employed position within our company in an effort retain our own investment of time and mentoring. Therefore, our internship openings are carefully considered & competitive in an effort to find the best interns suited for our company needs. Varying internship duties may include:

- Copywriting & content creation for marketing materials both print & online.
- SEO, SMM & data mining for sales opportunities
- Graphic design support such as image handling and processing
- On-site production support
- Assistance with client account management
- Data entry
- Research & development
- Campaign reporting
- Fabrication support
- Fulfillment support

Please send resume to Graham Dodge, gcdodge@stevensongroup.com.