A NOTE ON THE FALL 2025 STUDIO STUDIO SERIES

This fall's Student Studio Series features two weekends of new works: our first weekend will host workshop productions of two new plays written by TU student playwrights Shamar Martin and Humatabae Smith, and the second weekend will host the Wright the Future Festival spotlighting readings of plays focusing on the climate from our department and around the world. The workshop production process empowers the playwrights to explore their scripts through conversations, workshops, production meetings and rehearsals with their creative team (director, dramaturg, actors, designers, and stage managers). During the Wright the Future Festival we will seek inspiration from playwrights who are inspiring action by tackling the future of our planet and writing the future of theatre.
