

ARTS WITHOUT BOUNDARIES

A boundary is a dividing line that separates, it limits connection and creativity. This year COFAC provided artistic explorations outside the typical boundaries of a specific artform, to find common threads that unite and connect, rather than divide and limit.

COFAC THEME SCHOLAR

Theme scholar Desirée Rowe, from the Department of Communication Studies presents a multimedia introduction to the 2019–2020 college theme, Arts without Boundaries. Join us in this exploration through the lens of Dr. Rowe. Follow steps below to begin the journey.

COFAC FACULTY SALON

On January 31, 2020, Desirée Rowe, Assistant Professor in the Department of Communication Studies gathered with other pre-tenure faculty for light bites and drinks to discuss works in progress and ideas for collaboration. It resulted in an incredible evening of community building. Most of the faculty had never met each other before! Guest class lectures across departments, potential research projects, gallery shows, the next “salon” meeting, and more was discussed.
