

Assistant Professor/Associate Professor
Department of Nursing
College of Health Professions
CHP-N-3129

Position:

The College of Health Professions invites applications for two tenure-track, 10-month Assistant Professor/Associate Professor positions in the Department of Nursing beginning August 2018.

Qualifications:

Research doctorate and master's degree in nursing with expertise in a respective specialty area. ABD applicants considered, but appointment will be at the instructor rank and all degree requirements must be completed by February 1, 2019. Academic rank as an Assistant Professor/Associate Professor will be commensurate with qualification and university promotion and tenure criteria. Expertise in obstetrics will be given preference. Licensure or eligibility for licensure in Maryland is required. Two years of recent experience in teaching and/or practice related to the candidate's clinical specialty is preferred. Demonstrated success in working with diverse populations of students is also preferred. Possess a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and advising. Candidates must demonstrate evidence of a program of research eligible for external funding.

Responsibilities:

Undergraduate and graduate instruction; academic advising; scholarly research activities; and university and community service.

The Department:

The Department of Nursing is one of six departments in the College of Health Professions and CCNE accredited with approximately 425 undergraduate students. The department offers master's programs in nursing education and nursing administration. There are currently over 50 students enrolled in graduate studies. Post-baccalaureate/post-master's certificates in nursing education are available. Student admission is highly competitive. The Department of Nursing also offers the baccalaureate and master's degrees at the Western Maryland Hagerstown campus, a regional center within the University System of Maryland.

Towson University:

Towson University (www.towson.edu) was founded in 1866, is recognized by U. S.
