Human Library

12:00pm-6:00pm, Albert S. Cook Library Room 507

The Albert S. Cook Library and the Center for Student Diversity welcome students and families to share their stories in the form of a Human Book. A Human Book is a person who has volunteered to challenge prejudice through respectful conversation with members of the public, who borrow them. They will have a title that relates to their experience of prejudice and/or discrimination. The Human Library™ aims to establish a safe conversational space, where difficult questions are expected, appreciated and hopefully answered by the Human Book on loan. It was developed to challenge societal prejudices wherever and for whatever reasons they occur, and to help people form a better understanding of those with whom they share their communities. For details on becoming a Human Book, to volunteer, or for more information, visit <http://bit.ly/tuhumanlibrary>.
